

Resources from White Fragility Workshop

BOOKS:

Color of Law, by Richard Rothstein

Me and White Supremacy

White Rage

Tears We Cannot Stop

The History of White People

How to be Less Stupid About Race

So You Want to Talk About Race by Ijeoma Olou

This Book is Anti-Racist by Tiffany Jewell (is amazing and has a whole section on intersectionality)

Witnessing Whiteness by Shelley Tochluk

Pushout, (the criminalization of Black girls in schools) by Monique W. Morris
(Also a documentary)

PODCASTS:

On Scene Radio's podcast, a series called Seeing White, is SO IMPORTANT.

With Friends Like These podcast (Christopher Piccolini was on an episode of With Friends Like These. Podcast talking about his transition from being a white supremacist to a social justice worker.

ARTICLES:

This is a great article on moving past the either/or (dialectics in anti-racism)

<https://medium.com/thedearproject/how-to-not-be-a-karen-managing-the-tensions-of-antiracist-allyship-6f02f5514c4>

WEBSITES:

Zinnedproject.org

www.tolerance.org

allsides.com is a great website that will show, side by sides, of news articles from different perspectives (left, center, right). They also have a good graphic of where different news sources fall on the left, center, right spectrum.

<https://www.christianpiccolini.com/> Christopher Piccolini - Former white supremacist who is now an activist and works with young men to help them get out of white supremacist organizations.

Thank you everyone!